“ When I heard he was gone, so many memories flooded my mind. The one that came first was driving back to town from Nashoba... me, John, & Chase.. and John reached up and covered my eyes up, laughing his *** off, and told me I better sing that song with them or we would all wreck. The next was us racing in a track meet, barefooted, because we just knew it made us faster when we ran on our toes... It doesn't seem real even after today.
