“ He was married to my Grandmother Patricia Norton (named spelled wrong). I am her eldest granddaughter and was born after they were first married. He never treated me like I wasn't his own. One of the few good men I had in my childhood. I loved watching him love my grandma. I received his blessing when I married my now husband in 1999; knowing papa liked him was very important to me. I am forever grateful for all the love I received from him, the positive reinforcement he gave me. He is one of the few positives in my childhood and I know that I would never be as successful as I am without the lessons I learned from this man. I know he is at peace with Brent and grandma. That doesn't mean that it isn't hard for people still here that will miss him

Not from Stephanie Raymond. I am and never went by that name. I was Stephanie Jordan until I was married 20 years ago
